When practicing medicine, there are consequences for crossing the line with patients, other providers, and even yourself. In this course, physicians and other healthcare professionals will hear the professional liability considerations associated with personally and professionally stepping over the line. The information and examples will help you identify scenarios where a close call with blurred boundaries could impact you professionally.

Learning Objectives:

- Explain the relationship between physician-patient boundaries and professional liability risks
- Identify a previous encounter where expectations were not met with either a patient or another healthcare professional
- Apply risk reduction strategies to reduce liability risks and preserve professional and ethical boundaries
